

A black and white line drawing of a space scene. In the center, a rocket ship is launching upwards, leaving a large, billowing cloud of smoke and fire at its base. The rocket has a circular window and a pointed nose. Surrounding the rocket are various celestial bodies: a crescent moon with a smiling face in the top left; a planet with horizontal stripes in the top right; a ringed planet (Saturn) in the top right; a planet with horizontal stripes in the middle right; a planet with craters in the bottom right; and a planet with horizontal stripes in the bottom left. The background is filled with numerous stars of different sizes and a shooting star with a long tail. The word "BROODY" is written in large, bold, rounded letters across the center of the image, with the rocket and planets visible behind it.
